

Scholarship Competition 2007 / IDEAS SPRING

waiting rooms

Ideas Spring, an international ideas competition, now at its 4th edition with a direct approach to specific European Universities, resulted from the wish to highlight the characteristics that allow Domus Academy to be one of the most well-known and active educational institutions at the international level. Its students come from all over the world, with a multidisciplinary background.

Theme

Ideas Spring Competition 2007 has the target to promote a research of innovative models to live the waiting spaces of the city. The waiting spaces are parking zones, meeting points, crossing paths,... for short or big periods but usually dead; they could be public or private, open or closed, but they have the common feature of being abandoned, without quality and identity. The target of this competition is to find the necessary qualities to transform these waiting periods in nice moments. Revitalize, adapt, improve, colour, call for attention, etc...

Project

Urban, architectonic, design, installation projects, made for a specific site or not, adapted to different situations or not and that can be reproducible or not, are acceptable.

Participation

The participation in the competition is open to all the professionals in the subjects related to the urban and territorial development (economy, sociology, urban geography, architecture, planning, landscape, industrial design, etc.) and to students graduating in the above mentioned subjects within 2006.
